Stephanie McHugh – School Counselor, Belle Vernon Area School District

“Thank you for your service,” is something we readily say to veterans, reservists, and those on active duty. We sometimes forget that entire military families also serve our country! When an active-duty parent or guardian is deployed, the ripple effect can be felt especially in children who often haven’t developed workable coping strategies yet. This session provide strategies for educators who strive to provide exceptional support services with a sensitivity to military culture and how it impacts our kids. The presenter will overview academic/career/social-emotional supports and resources available to assist educators and their students.
