

Cultivating Impactful Student-Teacher Relationships to Promote Positive Outcomes for Special Population Students

Maria Border – Instructor, Penn State University

Candace Claar – Assistant Teaching Professor, Penn State University

Patricia Leibfreid – Assistant Teaching Professor, Penn State University

Participants will be led through a series of reflection exercises that will reveal key areas for identifying special population students. Teacher/student relationship-building strategies will be presented, and the session will close with the identification of resources for multiple special population categories.
